

Triple Tree Aerodrome

2021 Joe Nall Cancellation

The COVID-19 global pandemic is currently still affecting a large part of our nation. Medical professionals and statistics show that the current state of events is now worse in all 50 states than it was just 6 months ago.

Out of an abundance of wisdom and caution, we decided to cancel the 2021 Joe Nall Week.

We do not make this decision lightly. These events are gatherings that would involve a large cross-section of our population and with cases being as high as they are in our area and nation, it is not prudent to host this event. We are relying on wisdom and science to work.

1. Did you know Pat Hartness personally views this as one of his greatest disappointments in hosting 38 years of aviation events.
2. Did you know that Greenville County, the state's most populous county and next door to the Triple Tree Aerodrome, has reported more than twice as many cases as any other county in South Carolina over the past month.
3. Did you know Fun, Fellowship, and Hospitality cannot be fully experienced while socially distancing.
4. Did you know with multiple vaccination options and following healthcare professionals' advice, there is hope on the horizon.
5. Did you know The Triple Tree Aerodrome will fully refund all registrations.
6. Did you know the 2021 Nall in the Fall and The Triple Tree Fly-In could be the biggest events ever experienced at Triple Tree.
7. Did you know The Triple Tree Aerodrome chooses to be a leader in the aviation industry and our community as an example of how we can mitigate the risk of spreading and contracting COVID-19 to our customers, their family, and our community.
8. Did you know with cooperation and the latest treatment of COVID-19, we will finally be at a place to hold a morally safe and responsible event for all participants.

We are all anxious for the day when we can return to the Triple Tree Aerodrome, free of all restrictions and ready to fully experience fun, fellowship, and hospitality the way it was intended. Please continue to pray for everyone to do their part to help mitigate the spread of COVID-19. Thank you for your consideration and continued support during these trying times.

Regards, The Triple Tree Aerodrome-Board of Directors
