

Triple Tree Aerodrome

South Carolina Aviation High School Alliance

November 2022

The Triple Tree Aerodrome is proud to support the newly formed South Carolina Aviation High School Alliance. The Alliance was developed with the support of the South Carolina Aeronautics Association and is led by Doug Adomatis from Greenville Technical Charter High School. The purpose of this Alliance is to grow high school aerospace programs in South Carolina by:

- Attracting students to aviation and aerospace programs
- Engaging students in learning authentic skills
- Providing opportunities for students to advance their education and career pursuits

With support from industry and educational partners, the Alliance will build on the skills learned in the classroom by organizing the first-of-its-kind, statewide competition at the Patriots Point Naval & Maritime Museum in Mt. Pleasant on February 1, 2023.

During the event, students can demonstrate their skills to airline academies, aeronautical universities, and flight schools. Prizes will be awarded to the team with the highest cumulative score and the individual with the highest score.

To learn more about the Alliance and see the list of participating schools, please visit their website at <https://www.scaviationhs.org/>

In the upcoming months, The Triple Tree Aerodrome will announce collaborations with the Alliance to support educational opportunities for young men and women in South Carolina.

For the most up-to-date information about the Triple Tree Aerodrome, please visit our website at www.tta.aero

About: Triple Tree Aerodrome is a 501c3 non-profit organization located in Woodruff, South Carolina. The facility is home to many remote-control and general aviation events, including the world-famous Joe Nall and Triple Tree Fly-In, as well as year-round educational opportunities within our Aviation Centered Education (ACE) portfolio.